Reverses is a celebration of unintentional creativity - artwork found in the V&A collection created by marks, damage, fragments of sketches, notes and remnants of reuse found on the reverse, or verso, of a finished piece. Each image is a clue to the object's history, ownership and maker's process, allowing us to complete a view that is normally hidden. Here George Eksts brings together 150 intriguing works from the 'wrong' side of the paper.

With three different covers featuring the images from the collection.

Published in collaboration with V&A Publishing. Collected and photographed by George Eksts.
